Dear Sirs;

Please find letter and enc. Sent to Nissan Motors in re: to the recall of Nissan Murano
2003 VIN JN8AZ08W13W [REDACTED]

The Fuel tank protector was replaced on 3/22/2006, per recall.

Replaced again on 5/22/2006, at a cost of $108.42 charged to me.

It appears to me that Nissan should be liable to cover a repair that lasts less than 90 days.

Thank you,

Dear Nissan;

This Nissan Murano is the fourth Nissan product that I've owned. It will also be the final one.

This auto is apparently a potential fire hazard and trap.

The fuel tank (under recall), protector design is faulty and will very likely fail within 90 days of its installation. Poor engineering for an automobile designed for rugged usage.

(see att. #1) Recall repair done on 3/22/06, had to be re-done on 5/22/06 at a cost to me of $108.42.

(see att. #2) If the repair lasted less than 60 days, what does the future hold and what danger does it pose for my family and myself?

For the cost of this vehicle, surely you can perform at a higher level of proficiency than this. I am very disappointed with this product.
