To whom it may concern,

I own a consumer goods retail company and several Ford E350 and E450 box vans used to deliver merchandise. Recently we had to have one of our vans towed, a 2003 E350 with the 7.3 liter Powerstroke diesel engine, VIN # 1FDWE35F63HA [REDACTED] due to smoke coming from the doghouse and engine compartment. Inspection by a mechanic showed that a component in the doghouse was rubbing against the fuel line, and a hole was found in the fuel line causing fuel to leak out. This is a major safety concern, and one I hope will be investigated to ensure the safety of these vehicles.
