I have a 2005 Honda CRV with 79,000 miles. Big O tires just found a crack in a rim weld, and told me it is a manufacturer's error. I am past all warranties, and Honda is unable to help me. I will be buying a new rim.

My concern is that that my rim weld broke, and other vehicles might be affected. I would think this would increase the risk of accidents from tire blowouts. The Honda America customer service agent said he had never had anyone report such a problem.

I just wanted to check. Thanks.
