WE ARE UNABLE TO TAKE FURTHER ACTION ON YOUR COMPLAINT BECAUSE:

- (x) The complaint does not come within the jurisdiction of the Motor Vehicle Repair Shop Act, Dealer or Inspection Station Regulations.
- () The Regulation provides that we may only process complaints regarding repairs which have been made within the prior 90 days or 3,000 miles, whichever occurs first.
- () You are unable to provide supporting documents to substantiate your allegations.
- (x) OTHER: ---A dealer is responsible for covered items on a car at the time of sale. The items you are complaining about - electric door locks, including their wiring, and air bags - are not covered in a used car sale.
driver seat --- This facility is only registered as a dealer. Your letter indicates the dealer covered the cost of repairs to the car. They are not required to register as a repair shop if they don't bill the public for work. Therefore the Department has no jurisdiction over GOODWILL repairs made by this dealer.
---You have the right to pursue your complaint in civil court.

Move over, Toyota! Now Chrysler's turn for recall

CHRYSLER IS recalling almost 600,000 minivans and Jeep Wranglers in the U.S. and another 100,000 elsewhere because of brake or wiring problems that could create safety problems, the company and federal regulators announced yesterday.

Chrysler said it's recalling 288,968 Jeep Wranglers from the 2006 through 2010 model years due to a potential brake fluid leak.

It also is recalling 284,831 Dodge Grand Caravan and Chrysler Town & Country minivans from the 2008 and 2009 model years because a wiring problem can cause a fire inside the sliding doors.

Neither problem has caused any crashes or injuries, Chrysler said.

It was the second notable recall in the past week for Chrysler. The company recalled nearly 35,000 Dodge Calibers and a limited number of Jeep Compasses last week to fix a potential problem with sticky gas pedals — the same issue that has afflicted millions of Toyotas.

In the latest recall, the front inner fender liners on the Jeeps can rub against the brake fluid tubes and cause a leak. The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration said the leak could lead to a partial brake loss.

The minivans can have improperly placed wires that can come into contact with sliding door hinges that could cut through the insulation, Chrysler and federal regulators said.

A Chrysler spokesman said the defect could lead to a fire inside the minivan door in rare instances.

Chrysler will notify owners and dealers about the repairs, which will be made free of charge. The recall is expected to start later this month.

The Wranglers affected by the recall were made from May 15, 2006, through Aug. 9, 2009. The minivans were made from February 2007 through September 2007.
