INFORMATION ACT (FOIA), 5 U.S.C. 552(B)(6)

Dear Mr. Strickland:

I am forwarding to you a letter I have recently sent to Toyota Motor Sales USA, concerning their recall of a Sienna Spare Tire Carrier, and my dissatisfaction with their response to my request for reimbursement for expenses I incurred because of this faulty part. As unhappy as I am with their denial of my costs, I am even more disturbed by their responses as I tried to follow out this claim.

As detailed in the letter, each time I wrote to them, sending the documents they stated they needed to consider my request, Toyota replied saying I needed to send them another document, which they had not even mentioned before. This happened several times, and I felt like I was being strung along, like in an internet scam. This is no way for a major corporation to conduct business or treat customers.

I would be very interested to know if you have had other complaints about this company leading on its customers this way, and I would appreciate any remedy or investigation you can make into this matter.

Silver Spring, MD

Re: Toyota Sienna Spare Tire Carrier Recall, Special Service Campaign SSC A9E

Dear Toyota:

I am enclosing for your review documents to claim reimbursement for repairs that were required to our Toyota Sienna due to the faulty part noted under Safety Recall Notice and Special Service Campaign SSC A9E for Toyota Sienna Vehicles from 1998-2010. (See list below.) In particular I am sending a "cause-condition-cure letter," an item, that according to the latest of your correspondence, is absolutely essential.

Note that this is the third time I have written to you concerning this matter and you have previously assigned case numbers to this matter including 1009020272 and 1108243100. I sincerely hope that this time you will recognize your responsibility and obligation to reimburse us for the costs that we incurred for repair to our vehicle due to this equipment problem.

Allow me to review the history of this problem and the correspondence between Toyota and myself.

In late 2005 or early 2006 we realized that the spare tire carrier on our Toyota Sienna was inoperable, apparently rusted in place. In February 2006 we took it to our regular service station for repair, where they replaced the corroded spare tire assembly with a new Toyota part at a cost to us of over $300.00.

Some time later, we received from Toyota a "Safety Recall Notice" describing the problem with "Severe Corrosion of Spare Tire Carrier Cable." This notice urged us to contact a Toyota dealer and have the vehicle inspected, but we took no action at that time as we had already discovered the corrosion problem and had it repaired.

We later received a "Safety Recall Notice (Remedy Now Available)" and a "Safety Recall Follow-Up Notice (Remedy Available)" telling us that a repair was available from an authorized Toyota dealer. At the bottom of these latter two notices was the following paragraph.

What if you have previously paid for repairs to your vehicle for this specific condition?

If you have previously paid for repair to your vehicle for this specific condition prior to receiving this letter, please mail a copy of your repair order, proof-of-payment, and proof-of-ownership to the following address for reimbursement consideration . . .

Based on this paragraph, we sent Toyota the specified documents – repair order, proof-of-payment and proof-of-ownership – and requested reimbursement. In reply to us on December 6, 2010, Toyota said that the request was denied because we had not submitted a “Repair order from an authorized Toyota dealership showing completion of SSC A9E.” While we had already repaired the corroded spare tire cable at our own expense, we took our vehicle to Jim Coleman Toyota, Bethesda, Md., to have the authorized Toyota repair performed.

I then resubmitted a request for reimbursement including the repair order from Coleman Toyota and all other pertinent documents. However Toyota replied in a letter dated October 26, 2011 that the following was required:

Detailed statement written by the servicing dealer written on their company letterhead stating the symptoms of the vehicle when brought in for repair and the root cause of those symptoms including the replacement part numbers.

I spoke by telephone with a customer service rep who identified himself as Jeremy, on November 11, 2011; Jeremy referred to such a document as a “cause-condition-cure letter.” Enclosed is the letter from our service station that provides all the requested details. (Item 4, below.)

However, before I could obtain the “cause-condition-cure letter” and forward it to you, I received a letter dated December 2, 2011, stating that “the repair performed on your vehicle does not meet the criteria for reimbursement under the Special Service Campaign Ssc A9e . . . [and is] not eligible for reimbursement under any other warranty. . . .”

I am sending you now the cause-condition-cure letter, but I have to say that I am surprised and disappointed that I have had to go to such lengths in this claim process. I do not understand what detail or technicality Toyota is depending on to claim that the corrosion that our vehicle suffered is not related to the well-publicized recall.

Furthermore I am appalled at the way Toyota has handled our correspondence on this matter. Each time I have written to you I have supplied all the documentation specified and requested by you in your letters and published recall notices. However, in each instance Toyota has then responded by saying that more documentation was required.

My first reaction is that this treatment is no better than the cheap bait-and-switch tactics of a fly-by-night used car salesman. On reflection, I feel this is even worse – more like an internet scam promising a fortune from some foreign bank account, where at each stage the subject is told that the anticipated payment will be made if only a few more documents or advance fees can be provided.

I do not suggest that Toyota is engaging in fraud, but I feel that this process of requiring first one, and then another additional document – documents that had not been required or even mentioned previously – is a deceptive and dishonest practice that makes this customer feel as if he is being led on and taken advantage of. This is no way to treat any customer, much less one who has been buying and driving Toyota's for over 25 years.

The first car that I ever selected and purchased new was a 1978 Toyota Corolla. I drove that car for many years, even going cross-country from coast to coast twice. I was always impressed and satisfied with the reliability and durability of a Toyota, and for over 30 years I have owned several more Toyotas, always preferring them whenever I was looking for a new car. Currently, beside the Sienna, my wife and I own a Corolla station wagon, which we may have to replace soon.

However, my long standing preference for Toyotas is now considerably diminished by the difficulty I have had with you regarding this recall. Your bland assurance that "Toyota values you as a customer" is entirely unconvincing. When the time comes to find a new car, Toyota will not hold any favored place in my list of preferences.

NOTE: As stated before, I am requesting reimbursement of $307.48, ($139.48 for spare tire winch, 168.00 for labor). I hope you will pay careful attention to this letter.

Thank you, and Happy New Year.

p.s. I am sending a copy of this letter and all documentation to David L. Strickland, Administrator of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, and to the NHTSA Office of Defects Investigation. Furthermore, I am sending copies of this letter to my Congressional representatives, and to the Senators from the State of California.

Toyota spare tire winch recall

In February 2006, [REDACTED] brought their 1999 Toyota Sienna, VIN # 4T3ZF13CXXU [REDACTED] into Murray's Auto Clinic for repair. We have been providing service for their vehicles for several years.

The problem at that time was that the spare tire could not be released from the back of the van. On inspection it was found that the spare tire cable was corroded, causing the winch to be stuck.

We replaced the corroded spare tire assembly using Toyota part # 51900-08010.

Sometime later [REDACTED] learned that there is a national recall for this problem with Toyota Sienna's, including this model year.

I understand that they have applied for reimbursement for the repairs they needed to make, but their application has so far been denied. I am very surprised that Toyota is taking this approach and making it difficult for them to recover their cost when it is clear that the repair had to be made due to the condition listed by the national recall. I hope that this letter, along with the customers invoice and other documentation is adequate proof that the repair was made and pertained to the recall even before the recalled was issued.

Please do not hesitate to contact me if you have any questions.

Sincerely,
Milo Bannerman

Certain 1998 Through 2010 Toyota Sienna Vehicles Equipped with a Spare Tire
Severe Corrosion of Spare Tire Carrier Cable
SAFETY RECALL NOTICE (Interim Notice)

VIN: 4T3ZF13CXXU [Redacted]

Dear Toyota Customer:

This notice is being sent to you in accordance with the requirements of the National Traffic and Motor Vehicle Safety Act. Toyota has decided that a defect, which relates to motor vehicle safety, exists in certain 1998 through 2010 Model Year Sienna vehicles equipped with a Spare Tire.

What is the condition?

On certain 1998 through 2010 model year Sienna 2WD vehicles equipped with a spare tire, which were originally sold in or currently registered in specific cold climate areas with high road salt use (Severe Cold Climate States*), excessive corrosion may be exhibited on the end of the spare tire carrier cable. In the worst case, the spare tire stowed under the floor may become separated from the spare tire carrier and become a road hazard.

What will Toyota do?

Toyota is in the process of developing the remedy. However, in the interim any authorized Toyota dealer will inspect the spare tire carrier cable. Based upon the inspection, Toyota will do one of the following at NO CHARGE to you:

- If there is no significant corrosion of the spare tire carrier cable, you will be notified of that fact and requested to bring the vehicle back to the dealership when a campaign remedy becomes available.
- If significant corrosion is detected such that the spare tire carrier cable can no longer safely support the spare tire, a temporary solution, such as the removal of the spare tire and relocating it to the luggage compartment, will be performed. You will be notified of that fact and requested to bring the vehicle back to the dealership when a campaign remedy becomes available.

Owners of affected vehicles will be notified as soon as a remedy is available.

What should you do?

This is an important Safety Recall

Please contact your authorized Toyota dealer to make an appointment to inspect and, if necessary, relocate the spare tire as soon as possible. The inspection and, if necessary, the relocation of the spare tire will take approximately 20 minutes. However, depending upon the dealer's work schedule, it may be necessary to make your vehicle available for a longer period of time.

This Safety Recall involves customers whose vehicles are registered or originally purchased in the following 20 Severe Cold Climate States and the District of Columbia.

CT, DE, IL, IN, KY, MA, MD, ME, MI, MN, NH, NJ, NY, OH, PA, RI, VA, VT, WI & WV

We request that you present this notice to the dealer at the time of your service appointment.

If you would like to update your vehicle ownership or contact information, please go to www.toyota.com/ownersupdate. You will need your full 17-digit Vehicle Identification Number (VIN) to input the new information.

Dear Toyota Customer:

This notice is being sent to you in accordance with the requirements of the National Traffic and Motor Vehicle Safety Act.
