NOV 13 2015

I am a [REDACTED] year old woman with a wonder fiancé, [REDACTED]. He has 2 children, I have 2 children and I had a horrible thing to me and I know it is partly my fault. My day of putting a 100% trust behind the car I am driving is gone.

Chrysler has been in my family for a very long time. My father worked at the Jefferson plant in Michigan for 30+ years. He was always so proud, we all were, we all drove Chryslers. [REDACTED] my fiancé worships the ground Chrysler walks on. He leased me a 200 (2015) in August 2014, his daughter a lease in April 2015 and tomorrow he is turning in his RAM for a 2016 Dodge Ram Rebel.

I picked up [REDACTED] daughter, Sat October 24, 2015 to meet up with her brother, her father and her niece, [REDACTED] granddaughter. We were almost to the house when my 200 just would not go, even though I was giving it gas and the engine was still running. Thank God Thank God there was hardly any traffic on the road. I was able to turn down the street and the car just stopped. Lights were flashing everywhere; alarms were ringing, the check engine lite was on and the Service parking break was flashing. The engine was still running. I could not put the car in park or drive or anything, it was very bizarre.

I have leased cars almost all my life. My husband of 25 years was faithful to Toyota. I like leasing because I knew I had a new reliable vehicle. Never in my life did I have to deal with something like this. I was afraid to try to turn the car off but I did. [REDACTED] daughter and I just sat there, we could not believe what just happened and how dangerous this vehicle could be. Was her car next? And then of course my recall notice hanging on my fridge came to mind. This is were my fault comes in. I knew it needed that PDC fixed, I knew it was bad but I did not dream it would happen to my new car. I did get it started and called Parkway Chrysler ASAP. I was frustrated and upset which made the girl on the phone very mad. She had no compassion and no Customer service etiquette. She told me the service department was booked through most of November and I wouldn't get it fixed anytime soon. No - I was so upset I did not get her name, but I am sure I can!

I know this wasn't anything huge but my God it certainly could have been. [REDACTED] daughter commutes to college in her 2015 Chrysler 200 3 days a week to Detroit, is she next? on the expressway no less! Her father is frantic with worry. He did not receive a recall for her 200 for the PDC. Making a left turn at a intersection with on coming traffic and your car just stops in the middle of the turn!

People on line are calling this car a "Death Trap" but I am sure you already know that.

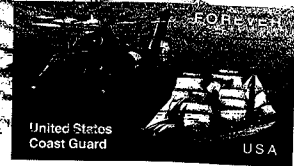

I am praying for all the people driving these cars. I will never feel safe in this car and will be counting the days til my lease is up. And I know [REDACTED] will worry every minute of every day for his daughters safety too.
