hi i was wondering if you could add the point that i received the recall and took the vehicle in.. the dealer informed me that i did not have the issue but i argued that my vehicle did from all the signs and exactly what was in the letter to look for. shortly after the vehicle broke down due to the issue from what they said i did not have. when i first brought the vehicle into service for recall i was under the warranty millage, when the incident happened i was now a little above millage warranty.
