this vehicle has had many recalls and they take too long to replace. The last one is for a high pressure fuel pump. My understanding is that it could cause a fire. It has been about 2 years on recall and they keep extending the recall. The last word I had was to expect something in March of 2024. I think this is unexceptable for a manufacturer of this size and the danger of the recall. I think they are ignoring this problem hoping it will go away.
