Hi,

I'm very concerned that you may plan to do nothing. I believe this problem is very under reported. Many crashes might be do to this problem.

I've learned that this failure of the ABS module is common on many vehicles including my Accord.
I've heard that this is due to relays going bad inside the ABS electronic control unit.

What I expect is, that when the abs module is not working correctly, that the brakes function like car without ABS.
What happens instead, is the brake force biases to the rear.

Best regards [REDACTED] Sent from my Android phone. And from [REDACTED]

Thank you,
