Hello,

I reported a safety concern and possible defect on June 8th but I haven't received any response or assistance. I think that this is a very serious issue and it should be addressed in a timely manner, as my vehicle stalling and being unable to increase/control speed has the potential to cause serious injury. This has occurred three separate times and each time was while on the road, either on the highway or while approaching the highway.

I have taken my vehicle to an auto shop where it was tested with a computer system. The computer system was unable to detect the issue, but I was advised that the stalling and the lights (check engine light, oil light, and battery light) appearing as I hit the gas pedal had to be an electrical issue / car defect.

This coupled with the other two current recalls (for the brake pedal and possible compartment fire) are MAJOR causes for concern.

My reference number is 11593241

Thank you,
[REDACTED]

Thank you
