Subject: RE: Time Extension for EA12-004

Dale,

When we spoke you mentioned unique circumstances regarding GM staff availability over the next few weeks (including company holidays and use of "use-or-lose" leave) that prevents your office from responding on November 26. ODI's IR response extension is normally only a 2 week period however your request will be granted due to the circumstances.

Subject: Time Extension for EA12-004

Scott

This is a follow-up to our conversation this morning where GM requested a time extension for answering the Information Request questions for EA12-004 (GMT360/370 driver door module).

As we discussed, the current due date is November 26, 2012 and GM is requesting a time extension for some of the questions until the new due date of December 14, 2012.

Also as we discussed, GM will provide answers to the following on the original due date of November 26, 2012:

- Questions 1, 7, 14,15 and 17.
- GM will also provide the GMW test procedure that we discussed as well as any test results on the subject vehicles using this test procedure.

GM will provide answers to the remaining questions no later than December 14, 2012.

Please reply to confirm that you agree with this extension.

Thanks
