RE: Safety Recall 11E-057
Identification Number EQ12-003

Dear Ms. Timian:

Please accept this as TexTrail, Inc. d/b/a TexTrail Trailer Parts' ("TexTrail") response to your correspondence of March 14, 2012. Please note that TexTrail is a retail/wholesale seller of trailer parts and components and not a manufacturer. Your correspondence makes note of "14 defective units", please be advised that Textrail has taken the following steps regarding the Dexter Axle Recall #11E-057:

1) Upon receiving Dexter Axles' recall notification, TexTrail immediately notified all six (6) of its locations of the recall and provided instructions to search and remove any and all affected parts from their inventories.

    a. One location had ten (10) affected parts in inventory, which were promptly removed and returned to Dexter Axle on or about January 18, 2012
    b. Five locations reported no affected parts in inventory.
    c. Four customers who received a potentially affected part were contacted directly by TexTrail and instructed to notify and coordinate with Dexter Axle for the replacement of such affected parts. TexTrail also provided their information to Dexter Axle for handling.

2) Due to the limited number of affected parts, as well as TexTrail being a retailer/wholesaler, and the fact that very few made it into the stream of commerce, TexTrail did not implement a recall on the Dexter Axle parts.

If any additional information is needed from TexTrail, please advise.

Sincerely,

Stan Garrett
Vice President – Finance & Risk Management
