RE: Fleetwood RV, Inc. (now Allied Recreation Group, Inc.) Response to EQ 13-006

Dear Ms. Glass:

We are writing in response to NHTSA's information request for EQ 13-006.

Fleetwood RV, Inc., did not purchase any of the locksets described in the EQ 13-006, 13E-039. It was determined that these locksets were sold to the travel trailer division of Fleetwood Enterprises, Inc. Fleetwood Enterprises, Inc., filed for bankruptcy protection in the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Central District of California, Riverside Division in March 2009. Our research has determined that none of the defective equipment was installed into a Fleetwood RV, Inc., "Motor Home."

Prior to filing bankruptcy, Fleetwood Enterprises, Inc., exited the travel trailer business and shuttered all travel trailer manufacturing centers. In July 2009 the bankruptcy court approved the sale of certain "Motor Home" assets and intellectual properties of Fleetwood Enterprises, Inc., to American Industrial Partners (AIP). This asset purchase did not include any of the assets, intellectual properties or legal liabilities associated with the travel trailer portion of their business. Soon after the asset purchase, AIP formed a new company, Fleetwood RV, Inc.

Since none of these defective parts were installed into motor homes manufactured by Fleetwood RV, Inc., we have determined that Fleetwood RV, Inc., (now Allied Recreation Group, Inc.) is not conducting a recall on this issue.

Sincerely,

ALLIED RECREATION GROUP, INC.
