Dear [REDACTED]

Thank you for your email to Mercedes-Benz USA.

A replacement key can be ordered and obtained directly from an authorized dealership. The dealer will request the vehicle physically present at the dealership for the key to be ordered.

As a security measure, you will be asked to bring the original vehicle registration or ownership document (Title) and original driver/operator license. Please contact the Parts Department with your local dealer to inquire about acceptable documentation. The link below will assist in locating the facility closest to your zip code.

Dealer Locate

The dealership can further advise the price of a replacement key and what service process is required to synchronize the key to your vehicle.

The opportunity to respond is appreciated.

Kind regards,

How can I get another Smart Key for my 2016 Mercedes Metris Passenger Van.

The dealer I bought the vehicle from could only supply me with one key.

Customer stated there is a fuel odor when temperatures are below 35 degrees, when temperatures are 65 degrees are above there is no smell. 2 months ago the vehicle was in the dealership for Service B maintenance and dealer was unable to duplicate the fuel odor at that time temp were warm. Spoke with [REDACTED] claims said heard of the problem before and order a fuel line hose but due to not duplicating smell hose was not replaced. When researching on FM group of people are having same issue. Inquiring there are any recalls, already reported to NHTSA

Writer advised the customer concerns will be documented and currently there are no open recalls/svc campaigns or wty ext. Recommended to bring the vehicle back to the authorized dealership to have diagnosed, may need to leave the vehicle overnight to see if can duplicate being happens at low temps. Once vehicle is at the dealer and has further concerns, can callback to have reviewed, no guarantees

Customer stated glad issue is being documented, thanked writer and ended the call
