Hi Linda,

I hope you are doing well today. After reviewing the support you provided for the 1.6L Engine Recall, I had a few follow-up questions.

(1) I was able to agree the total worldwide volume (464,800 vehicles) from the cost estimate to the GCAMP Volume Queries, however I was unable to break out the total population by region (US, Canada, etc). I was hoping you would be able to provide a walk from the GCAMP file to the agree to the volumes utilized in the NA cost estimate.

| Volumes | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| | US | Canada | E&G | Total |
| Units Produced | 207,284 | 21,874 | 1,852 | 231,010 |

(2) The MMP part screen you provided last week does not agree to the price utilized within the cost estimate. If you could provide additional support behind the material cost build-up, that would be helpful.

| Program Cost Estimate | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| | Units | Cost Per Unit | Markup |
| [redacted] | | | |

If you have any questions, feel free to give me a call (ext. 10966). Thanks for your ongoing support.

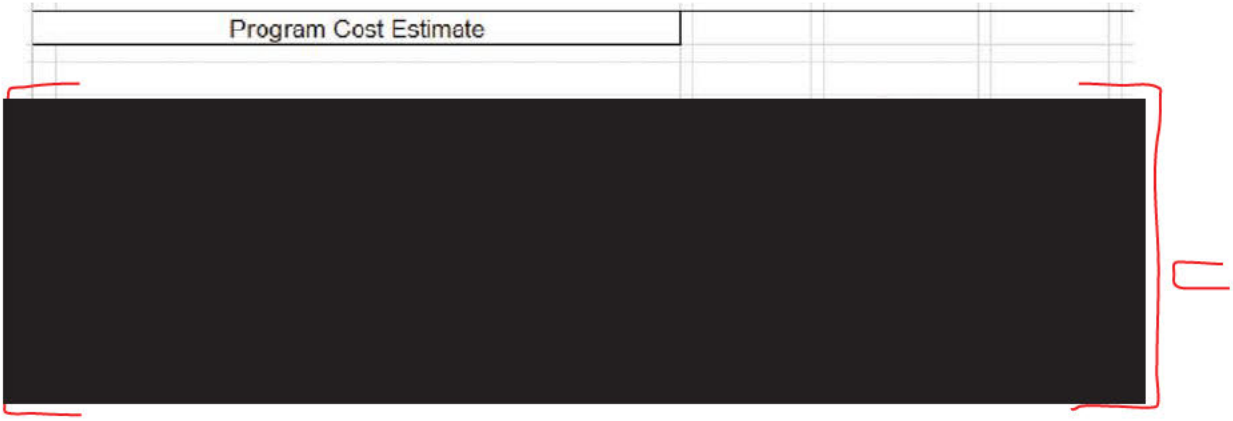

Have a great day,

John

Hi Linda,

Again - we really appreciate you pulling this support together. We scheduled a call with Santos to discuss the labor times so hopefully he can help close that item out. We do have an additional question for you related to the material cost.

The part cost from the MMP screenshot you provided does not agree to the cost per unit we see in the cost estimate. This might be because the cost estimate includes a Repair Kit cost as compared to an individual part, or that the cost is different for each vehicle model and the amount we see is a weighted average. I've included the amounts we see below. If you have any additional support behind the buildup to the cost per unit amounts we see that would be helpful.

We will plan on reaching out early next week to see if we can get some additional information.

Thank you and have a great weekend!

Hi John,

- Draft 14-D (see attached)

- MMP Screenshot showing part price for surrogate part from Program 13S12 (see attached)

- Final GCAMP volume reports (see attached)

- Criteria/ VERN used to generate volume report (see attached; for the VERN, it includes the FNA region. Other regions handled their own, then the volume was brought into the same program.)

- Labor time studies for the surrogate repairs from Program 13S12 (we can reach out to Santos to understand the adjustments made) For the time study, as I had mentioned, those are estimates based on 13S12. I do not have that time study, but Santos may be able to help.

- Dealer bulletin that was sent out on March 28 (see attached)

- Draft customer letter planned on being sent out April 18 (see attached)

Subject: 1.6L Engine Recall - PwC Testing

Hi Linda,

I appreciate you taking time out of your busy schedule to meet with us. As discussed during our conversation, below is a list of our requests needed to complete our testing over the 1.6L Engine Recall. If there is someone else to reach out for the below requests, please let us know!

- Draft 14-D

- MMP Screenshot showing part price for surrogate part from Program 13S12

- Final GCAMP volume reports

- Criteria/ VERN used to generate volume report

- Labor time studies for the surrogate repairs from Program 13S12 (we can reach out to Santos to understand the adjustments made)

- Dealer bulletin that was sent out on March 28

- Draft customer letter planned on being sent out April 18

If you could get us these requests by EoD Thursday, April 13 that would be helpful!

Have a great day,

All, released in WERS today. It is an anti-abrasion sleeve and being added as a robustness action. I am of the understanding that based on the alert Ken wrote the PO could be updated to help expedite this change. How can we make this happen today?

Mike,

When is GV61 8K276 AC going to be released, and is the service part number going to change? We need the new part number to be released to issue a tool order for the sleeve/stamp.

Also, what is the function the sleeve provides for the hose?

Correct. This is a service only action (associated parts will not be used in present nor future model production).

We are using the WERS concern, notice, and alert processes only as a means to release and manage service part numbers that are associated with the approved and funded by FCSD 17S09 field service action.

SENSOR QUALITY - PD

- Sensor spike/ repeat repairs approaching 623 SPW claims/ [redacted] for the first quarter 2018
- Early failures indicate most fail before leaving the dealer
- Only 3 claims for 9P449 or 8A080 are in the OE/ PD warranty data, all claims going to SPW
- Require differences for the sensor from 13S12 to 17S09. Why are there no SPW claims for the sensor from 13MY Escape?

SENSOR QUALITY - PD

- Coolant Contaminants:
  - Aluminum Oxides in coolant coating the sensor. OAT, Going to POAT.
  - VC-3DIL-B (US) CVC-3DIL-B (Canada) - Motorcraft Orange Antifreeze / Coolant Prediluted
  - John Teller submitting an FAV for cooling issues post 17S09, DTC's P1940, P2556, P2557, P2560, U1035. Attempting to obtain coolant samples for Mary Ranger.

SENSOR RELEASE - PD

  - ~~Lower Stand Pipe - GV61-8C045-BA~~
  - ~~Sensor - GV61-8C045-CB~~

- ~~Note that all other stand pipe assemblies are already released in detail and with FCSD Purchasing~~

- ~~Note that when parts are released in a lower level detail~~
  - ~~It often leads to a reduced part prices and/or a reduced labor times~~
  - ~~If they are not released in detail, options are removed before it is even launched for PD and FCSD. Further, they can not even get through the system fully to be evaluated~~
  - ~~Suppliers may not be ready or unwilling to produce parts at that lower level for service if not released and quoted with the full expectations from the beginning~~

PRICE – SENSOR, STAND PIPE & ASSEMBLY - FCSD

- Hypothesis:

  Purchasing's prices are skewed due to the same base part number for the degas bottle, the stand pipe and the sensor. This can leave these items clustered together and they are assumed to be all the same part type calling for similar pricing

- Need clarity on the price of the stand pipe assembly vs. the price of the kit
- Need clarity on the price of the sensor and standpipe alone vs. the assembly price

Zuzana, Marc, can you provide the status on the component parts we reinstated on Dec. 1, 2017? The current assembly (Standpipe and Sensor) costs more than the recall kit. Dealers are ordering a new kit when they need the sensor. We reinstated the components to provide the technician a cheaper alternative for service when all they need is the sensor.

Subject: FSA 17S09

Team,
We discovered an issue that is tremendously affecting our SPW Spend via FSA 17S09. The impact is presently at 504 Claims, [redacted] just the first quarter of 2018CY data alone... and its growing.
We have read the claims, the FSA publication, the prints, the WERS releases as well as this e-mail. It would appear that Technicians are simply ordering another kit to obtain a replacement sensor. FSA 17S09 was just released this year and no one wants to spend an extra [redacted] a quarter, so we need you help driving closure quickly.

I was the center point of the PD team for the release of the 13S12 mega kit, 17S09's oldest brother. After several meetings, it was agreed upon to release ALL components of the kit individually (SAR Y), as well as in the structured mega kit itself. I worked with each PD team as they released their parts individually, and with the help of Steve Smith, we packaged them all together into the mega kit. I even went through PPAP with HLM. I then sat with FCSD PS&L team members and we again agreed to release all parts in the 13S12 kit to the vehicle lines as directed by the WERS notices.

To my knowledge, FSA changes ARE VIN specific, changing the vehicle and its BOM itself. All vehicles should be changed to AND serviced at the intended level at the time of the FSA, and never back to its "As Built" level.

I believe to remedy this quickly:

1) The PD Engineering team needs to make some small touch ups to some of the parts screens in the WERS notice, assuring that all parts are coded with SAR Y to feed MMP properly.
2) Then the FCSD PS&L team can to work these parts into the catalog so the Technicians can order them independently as required.

Please keep us posted on what action will be taken so we can present this spend and containment actions accurately. Please let me know if any assistance may be required.

This is true.
Keep in mind; the catalog show the service parts AS BUILT.
This is why we are adding a comment to the production part that will address the recall and to refer to the recall for service replacement (2nd repair parts).

Randy Crawford,

Once a dealer performs the FSA on a vehicle and the FSA closes for that vehicle it is not apparent to the dealer during the normal repair process that a FSA exists in which new parts may have been retrofitted to the vehicle. Therefore this is not a robust path that would direct dealers to the appropriate parts during future repairs. Also, the FSA uses kits with the new parts to be installed onto vehicles during the retrofit, but the components within the kits are not called out with individual part numbers within the FSA.

From my perspective, with my service background, the proper thing for the team to do would be to include these new parts in the catalog for dealers to intuitively find.

Randy Hanson, John Teller,

Can you set up a meeting with the affected teams to discuss this together and determine the most appropriate way to resolve this concern?

Thanks.

Randall,

Thank you for laying out our standard process.

What do we do with FSA safety mandated parts that must be available as a spare part? This is not the first time that we have done regulatory driven recalls that resulted in a revised part content versus the original bill of material. I think you know that if we exceed the federal threshold for vehicle down time, we can just be told to buy back all the impacted vehicles. I have had to work through one of these before and would prefer not to go through that process again.

Subject: RE: Recall 17s09

Traditionally we do not publish unique TSB parts in our parts catalog and we don't reference TSBs in our catalog.

Part that are unique to a TSB are normally symptom driven parts. The TSB addresses a specific vehicle concern and the unique part(s) that address it.

When a vehicle comes into a dealership any good dealer with run the VIN for recalls and specific published fixes base on the symptoms that the vehicle is exhibiting.

We don't publish unique TSB related parts because we don't want dealers using the catalog to identify TSB specific parts.

Example: A TSB that addresses cold weather starting concern (below 30 degrees ambient temperature) for a 2009 Escape. Engineering released a new sensor that addresses the concern. A vehicle goes to a dealer in Florida where the diagnosis instructs the technician to replace the sensor. If we published TSB unique components the parts person would find two sensors listed in the catalog. One references a TSB. He may tell the technician or he may believe the TSB part is the better of the 2 and orders it. He may also call our PACO team and ask what the difference is between the two parts. All of these scenarios just create more confusion. Dealers need to use the correct tools to determine if a TSB, Recall or SSM are applicable to the vehicle they have in their dealership.

The bottom line is TSBs address specific vehicles, specific model years, specific built dates, specific vehicle attributes and specific systems and they don't belong in our parts catalog for that reason.
We publish the parts that the vehicle was built with and Ford designed accessories only.

On very rare occasions we will reference a TSB when we receive a large number of dealer inquiries for a given part number and we are aware that a TSB fix is available. Most of these instances will be where a part is obsolete and there is a repair available to make another part work in its place with some modification or with the use of several parts.

I hope this aids in the teams understanding as to why we don't publish or reference unique TSB, Recall or SSM parts in our parts catalog.

John,

Have you had a chance to review the Parts Catalog (FCA) concern with Randy?

If I am reading this response correctly, there are no plans to add any of the coolant level sensor system components to the parts catalog. I am concerned that dealers will not know how to order individual parts that are needed for future repairs.

Please take a look at this response again and see what can be done.

Team,
It has been determined by our management that the individual part for this recall will not be cataloged in FCA.

Part of the reasoning is that the part will not VIN match. Our catalog uses "As built" information to direct dealers to the proper parts.

Our concern is with a "Second Repair". Who should dealers contact in order to procure individual parts in case of Failure, Accident or any other reason?

All of the component do have service part numbers and will be stocked in the Parts Depots for dealers to order.

We have already seen an increase in Part Inquiries associated with this recall.

We would need contact information on who would provide repair information to the dealers.

Thank you.

Yes, this does. What I want to discuss at next week's Ongoing Investigations meeting, is how to build inventory obso reserves in case the take rates do not materialize.

e.g. we'll likely commit to buying 200,000 kits, what if we only have demand for 150,000?

Hi Mariusz,

Are you referring to PCA parts?

There is a global strategy to source these for the FSA for all markets.

Any plan to deviate or change this strategy needs to be agreed on by the global PS&L team managing the parts for this concern. Has this been discussed with these stakeholders?

A starting point for Linda and I would be a list of kits incl part numbers and what components (incl part numbers) are in each kit – from there we should be able to identify the supplier and costs if available.

Good afternoon,

Mat/Gary,

Have you frozen&publish the new drw/3d in TCE?

Tony,
Have you managed to do the same for the new Kit?
Thanks

Kind Regards,

How are you feeling today?:)

Can we have another supplement?:)
We need to up suffix the hose GV61-8K276-A* and the kit.
Thanks

Kind Regards,

Ken:

Attached is the data collected from the run that occurred Monday morning. Things look much better but we do have a couple that are slightly out of spec. I have highlighted those in red.

Thank you,

The run when well and I can feel a difference when I put the Upper and Lower together. We have the parts in the lab now. I will get more information and pass it along.

Chad,
Just left you a voice mail as well…how did first shots go and how are dimensional checks progressing?
The team are waiting anxiously!

We are ready to measure them right away but will probably need to re-measure them later today / tomorrow morning to make sure the shrinking of the part is 100% complete.

Thanks for the update Chad.
We will be most curious about the dimensional checks. We will want to evaluate those asap so we can hopefully approve for shipment later this week.
Thanks.

Ken:

We are putting the mold in the press this morning. As soon as we have some resin through the drying process we will mold some product. More than likely we will be molding parts late morning.

Thank you,
