ACTION / SUMMARY INFORMATION

Action: Further evaluation of the Defect Petition in order to grant or deny the petition.

Summary:

The Office of Defects Investigation (ODI) received a petition dated August 18, 2022, requesting an investigation of all van-type semi-trailers due to collisions with passenger vehicles and other vulnerable road users (pedestrians, bicyclists, or motorcyclists) resulting in significant injuries or death due to a lack of effective rear impact guards. No single trailer manufacturer or equipment supplier was identified. The petition itself can be reviewed at NHTSA.gov under ODI Number 11481272.

Federal Motor Vehicle Safety Standard (FMVSS) numbers 223 and 224 contain performance requirements for rear underride guards on semi-trailers. On July 15, 2022, NHTSA published a final rule (87 FR 42339), which amended these standards. This action was taken in response to petitions for rulemaking from the petitioners, the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety (IIHS), and the Truck Safety Coalition (TSC). These revised standards went into effect January 11, 2023, with a compliance date of no later than July 15, 2024.

In support of their petition, the petitioners state that rear underride fatalities are known to be underreported, and that these fatalities—as well as the existence of certain rear impact guard options—indicate that semi-trailers lack effective rear impact guards. The petition acknowledges that the issues presented may be addressed by the actions the agency is taking pursuant to the Bipartisan Infrastructure Law. This defect petition has been opened to evaluate the issue and determine whether to grant or deny the petition.

September 25, 2020 Safety Advocacy, Truck Safety underride, underride crash, Underride Crash Map, Underride Crash Memorials, underride deaths [redacted]

Because the bottom of a truck is higher than the bumper of passenger vehicles, when there is a collision the smaller vehicle easily slides under the truck and the first point of impact is the windshield — resulting in underride and passenger compartment intrusion (PCI). Seatbelts, airbags, and car crumple zones do not function as intended in underride crashes — front, side, and rear — leaving passenger vehicle occupants vulnerable to life-threatening injuries.

This geometric mismatch has been misunderstood for decades. Reports on truck crashes generally focus on the cause of the crash and not what caused the deaths. So underride is undercounted. I know this from firsthand experience having been in a truck crash (but not in the part of the car which went under the truck) and lost two daughters because of underride (one of whom was not reported as such in DOT data).

In order to raise awareness and preserve the memories of underride victims — precious ones gone too soon — I have been writing memorial posts on what appear to me to be underride crashes. I am not a crash reconstructionist, and I do not have all the facts on these crashes; but underride should be investigated as a potential factor in truck crash injuries and deaths.

This is not an exhaustive list — merely the tip of the iceberg. But I hope that it serves to demonstrate the ongoing nature of a preventable public safety problem.

You can find these Underride Crash Memorial posts here.

UPDATE: Police release new details in fatal Warren County Christmas Day accident

December 29th, 11:16 AM EST
Updated: January 19th, 11:16 AM EST

By Jared Eggleston

Fatal Warren County Christmas Accident (WFXG)

WARREN COUNTY, Ga. (WFXG) - Georgia State Patrol has released new details about a Christmas Day accident in Warren County. They say they responded to the scene at mile marker 163 shortly before 1:30 p.m. Christmas Day.

FOX54 first alerted you of the accident on Christmas Day after [redacted]

A tractor-trailer experiencing mechanical failure was stopped in the emergency lane, when a Dodge Charger then entered the lane, and hit the back of the truck. According to the Georgia Department of Public Safety, the Dodge Charger failed to maintain lane, leaving the roadway and becoming wedged under the truck.

The incident report states that the truck driver told police that she and her coworker were sitting in the sleeper cabin of the tractor trailer, when she felt a bump and struck her head. After exiting the truck, she tried to get the driver of the Dodge Charger out of the car, but said it then caught fire. The driver also stated she and her co-driver attempted to put out the fire with a fire extinguisher, but the car continued to catch fire, making it unsafe for them to enter the vehicle.

After putting out the fire, officials say they found [redacted]-year-old [redacted] and [redacted]-year-old [redacted] in the vehicle. We now know that both [redacted] and [redacted] suffered deadly injuries caused by the collision.

Georgia State Patrol says the investigation is still ongoing.

PEARL RIVER COUNTY, MS (WLOX) - Floodwaters in Pearl River County are causing multiple issues for residents and first responders. On Saturday morning, multiple roads were underwater, causing traffic delays throughout the Poplarville area.

The flooding has been most severe in the White Sands and Hillsdale communities. Officials said the flooding has caused a train to derail just north of Hillsdale Road.

According to Chief Deputy Shane Tucker with the sheriff's department, 14 cars derailed on the Norfolk Southern train but no authorities do not believe there is a hazmat situation.

Tucker said the derailment is not blocking Hillsdale Road at this time but the road is flooded over. EOC director Danny Manley said no injuries have been reported.

Around 10:25 a.m., Mississippi Highway Patrol responded to a fatal crash on I-59 just south of Highway 26.

Sgt. Chase Elkins said it appeared a Freightliner was stopped in the northbound lane due to standing water on the interstate. A Poplarville man driving a Toyota Corolla was traveling north and ran into the back of the Freightliner.

He was pronounced dead on the scene. Elkins identified the victim as [redacted]-year-old [redacted] died from injuries sustained from the crash.

The driver of the Freightliner was not injured.

Traffic is also seeing backups on I-59 at Wolf River near mile marker 32. Only one lane of traffic is open at this time due to water over the road.

There is also 5-6 feet of water over the road on Highway 26 East at Gator Creek. Boley Creek is also causing the White Sands community on Highway 26 West to flood.

He said he had been stopped in the passing lane for approximately 10 seconds when an SUV slammed into the back of his trailer.

The woman driving that vehicle was pronounced dead at the scene.

State troopers working the crash told KTVO the woman's driver license indicated she was from Independence, Missouri, but they still had to confirm that. Her name is not being released until her family is notified.

The two men in the semi were not hurt.

The crash closed both eastbound lanes of Highway 36, but eastbound traffic was allowed to pass on the shoulder.

This story will be updated with names as soon as the Missouri State Highway Patrol releases them.

A Harrisburg pianist who performed around the world and served as a local church music director died Friday night when his Volkswagen crashed into a stopped tractor-trailer on Interstate 81, authorities said.

When he died, [redacted] was driving south on I-81 near exit 77 toward Route 39 in Hummelstown/Hershey, according to Pennsylvania State Police. His 2014 Volkswagen Jetta around 11:39 p.m. slammed into the back of a tractor-trailer that was stopped in the left lane because of PennDOT construction.

PennDOT teams were performing moving roadwork installing rumble strips on the right shoulder, PennDOT spokeswoman Fritzi Schreffler said. The equipment was on the right shoulder. Because of this, traffic had slowed and was merging into the left lane. Signs had been posted in advance of the work area, she said.

State police said they used witness statements and PennDOT traffic cameras to determine [redacted] was driving too fast for conditions. Frazer said they did not know his exact speed and were not going to do a crash reconstruction.

"We are very saddened at the loss of our friend and colleague, [redacted]. He was truly a part of our SSA family," State Street Academy, where [redacted] gave private piano lessons, wrote on Facebook. "What a tragedy, and a loss to us who knew him as friend, and colleague, and to the community that he served with his amazing gift. [redacted] will sorely missed."

"His impact on our academy as a student, an alumnus, and artistic advisor is impossible to overstate. His loss leaves a big void in our hearts, as well as countless friends and artists who were fortunate to have met him," the international piano academy Feuerwerk Einbeck posted.

"The world lost one of the most brilliant people who impacted everyone who met him," said [redacted] the [redacted] academy's artistic director. "Not to mention his talent and knowledge, which most definitely could have landed him in the lead of major U.S. concert venues later in his life."

In addition to his [redacted] at his [redacted] was an [redacted] at First United Methodist Church of Mechanicsburg, according to his obituary. He played the organ and piano at churches across Lebanon, Berks and surrounding counties.

Last fall, [redacted] helped produce "Music of [redacted] which aired on WITF.

"People would often comment on the light touch he had on the piano," the obituary said. "Outside of his main passion which was music [redacted] enjoyed reading, watching movies, being active in theater and drama, and was an avid "people person," keeping in touch with his friends and family on a regular basis. He enjoyed networking and bringing people together."

[redacted] family is asking for memorial donations to be made to State Street Academy. The family is planning to create a memorial fund, which will be announced at a later date.

Feds Investigate Tesla Crash that Killed Retired California Couple

Steve Huff - Jul 15 2022

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) has begun an investigation into the circumstances surrounding the deaths of Lompoc, CA retirees [redacted] and her husband, [redacted]. The couple died July 6 at a Florida rest stop after their 2015 Tesla plowed into the rear of a parked semi.

Based on the Florida Highway Patrol's report on the crash, the couple was driving south around 2 p.m. on Interstate 75 when they exited at a rest stop. The exit lane forked, with cars directed one way and trucks the other. The Seelandt's Tesla swerved in the wrong direction, toward the trucks — where it rammed into a parked trailer. The couple was killed at the scene.

Investigators told local media they weren't certain that the Tesla's autopilot was engaged when the vehicle struck the semi, but on July 13 the Orlando Sentinel reported that the Seelandt family had retained the services of Morgan & Morgan, which touts itself as "America's largest injury law firm." The firm also has a page dedicated entirely to Tesla Self-Driving Car Accidents, which says in part that "self-driving Teslas have been involved in several deadly accidents over the past few years, raising questions about Autopilot's safety, Tesla's marketing language, and the discrepancy between the two."

Attorneys Mike Morgan and Josh Moore told the Sentinel that they are "in the very early stages of our investigation to determine what caused this deadly collision and have requested Tesla preserve all evidence related to this matter."

In June this year, the NHTSA published a report on its "Standing General Order on Crash Reporting for Level 2 Advanced Driver Assistance Systems." This order, issued in June 2021, required "identified manufacturers and operators … to report to the agency certain crashes involving vehicles equipped with SAE Level 2 Advanced Driver Assistance Systems (ADAS)."

According to the NHTSA, 367 crashes occurred between July 2021 and May this year in vehicles equipped with some form of autopilot software. During that period, California had more than any other state — 125. The top carmakers on this unfortunate list were Tesla, with 273 crashes, then Honda and Subaru, respectively. Fortunately, most injuries from these crashes were minor, though there were five recorded serious injuries and six recorded deaths.

California-based EV maker Lucid Motors only listed one autopilot-related accident, and Irvine's Rivian wasn't on the list at all.

The United States averages around 6 million car crashes a year, so 367 possibly autopilot-related wrecks seem vanishingly small by comparison. But as companies continue testing self-driving vehicles on California roads, precision and predictability seem more important than ever. dot.la has reached out to the NHTSA for further comment on the agency's investigations and will update once we receive a response.

A North Carolina woman died in a four-vehicle, chain-reaction crash during heavy snow showers Monday, closing southbound Interstate 81 in Hagerstown for six hours, according to Maryland State Police.

[redacted], of Greensboro, was pronounced dead at the scene. Two other people, whose identities were not released, were taken to Meritus Medical Center east of Hagerstown for treatment of injuries not considered life-threatening, police said Tuesday in a news release.

The 1:49 p.m. crash occurred at the six mile marker nearly under the U.S. 40 bridge as three of the vehicles, Goodwin's Mazda SUV, a tractor-trailer and a Dodge pickup truck, were stopped in the southbound left lane due to slowing traffic. An approaching tractor-trailer hit the rear of the pickup truck and pushed it into the SUV, which was then pushed into the rear of the other tractor-trailer, authorities said.

A dog in the SUV was injured and taken by The Humane Society of Washington County to Mountain View Animal Hospital, authorities said.

The southbound lanes at the scene were closed while police conducted a crash reconstruction investigation and heavy-duty tow services were called in to help remove vehicles, according to a Washington County 911 supervisor.

Firefighters from Halfway, Hagerstown and Williamsport as well as ambulances from Community Rescue Service and Franklin County, Pa., responded, the 911 supervisor said.

The Maryland State Highway Administration also had officials at the scene.

The snow emergency plan that had been in effect was lifted at 6:30 a.m. Tuesday, police said.

DURHAM, N.C. — An Amazon Prime delivery driver was killed in a crash on Interstate 85 north of Durham on Wednesday morning.

The State Highway Patrol said Thursday that a truck was stopped in the right lane, waiting to merge when [redacted] of Scotland Neck, driving the Amazon van, ran into it.

[redacted] died at the scene. The driver of the truck [redacted], of Roanoke Rapids, was not hurt.

"It's so heartbreaking because, at Amazon delivery, we're still all one family. So just to hear this is very tragic," dispatcher [redacted] said.

The crash occurred after 11 a.m. on northbound I-85, shutting the highway down for hours at Redwood Road (Exit 183).

[redacted] who was caught in the miles-long backup, said it appeared the Amazon van hit the back of a tractor-trailer.

"The entire front of the vehicle looked gone," [redacted] said. "It all looked like scrap metal."

The right lane of northbound I-85 reopened shortly before 3 p.m.

"Even when I was, like, driving back home, it got even longer [redacted] said of the backup. "You see tons of cars trying to take exits beforehand, trying to find another way."

[redacted] said [redacted] had just started his route when the crash occurred.

"You know I think about my drivers," she said. "I was willing to call every driver that I have on the road to make sure that they were OK."
