Dynamic Stability Control Yaw Rate Sensor Inspection

Dear Land Rover Owner

This notice is sent to you in accordance with the requirements of the National Traffic and Motor Vehicle Safety Act. Land Rover has decided that a defect that relates to motor vehicle safety exists in 2004 Range Rover vehicles. A number of Range Rover vehicles equipped with Dynamic Stability Control (DSC) could have been fitted with a yaw rate sensor that is not within specification. Land Rover is therefore implementing this Recall Action on affected Range Rover vehicles that could exhibit this concern. If you are a recipient of this notice, and an owner of a Range Rover vehicle within the affected range, this letter is to inform you that your vehicle is included in the Recall Action.

What is the problem?

Land Rover is recalling Range Rover models equipped with Dynamic Stability Control (DSC) that were built between 22 June 2004 and 9 July 2004. Range Rover vehicles equipped with DSC and built between the affected dates could have been fitted with a defective yaw rate sensor. An out-of-specification yaw rate sensor could actuate the DSC system incorrectly, resulting in uneven and unexpected application of the brakes which will increase the likelihood of an accident.

What will Land Rover and your Land Rover Retailer do?

An authorized Land Rover Retailer will inspect the yaw rate sensor for a production code. If the code falls within the affected range the Retailer will install a new sensor to correct the situation.

What should you do?

Please contact your authorized Land Rover Retailer to schedule an appointment to have this work completed on your vehicle at your earliest convenience. This work will be carried out free-of-charge. When you contact the Retailer, inform them of the need to have Recall Action B178 "Stability Control Yaw Rate Sensor Inspection" completed on your vehicle.
