Recall No.: 13C-003
ORBIT BABY Car Seat Base G2 (Model No. ORB822000)
Date Manufactured: Between March 20, 2013 and July 20, 2013
Batch Numbers: A0840, A0860 and A0880

Dear ORBIT BABY Retailer:

This notice is being sent to you in accordance with the requirements of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration. Orbit Baby, Inc. has determined that a manufacturing defect which does not allow proper installation of some bases in accordance with the installation instructions exists in specific ORBIT BABY Car Seat Base G2 (Model No. ORB822000) units manufactured between March 20, 2013 and July 20, 2013 with one of the following Batch Numbers: A0840, A0860 and A0880.

IMPORTANT NOTE: This recall only affects the Car Seat Base G2. The Infant Car Seat G2 carrier (Model No. ORB833000) is NOT included in this recall.

Description of the Defect

Some StrongArm Knobs on the affected Car Seat Base G2 units may detach or just spin without tightening the base when a spring pin that connects the StrongArm Knob falls out. In either of these cases, the Car Seat Base G2 cannot be installed securely because you must tighten the base into the vehicle by using the StrongArm mechanism.

This issue does NOT affect the Orbit Baby Infant Car Seat G2 carrier (Model No. ORB833000), which can be installed with or without the Car Seat Base G2. The Infant Car Seat G2 carrier can continue to be used without the base until the repair kit has been installed.

What Orbit Baby is doing for Consumers

All registered owners of the affected Car Seat Base G2 manufactured between March 20, 2013 and July 20, 2013 with Batch Numbers A0840, A0860 and A0880 will be sent a repair kit to re-attach the StrongArm Knob.
Consumers who have not registered their product should contact the ORBIT BABY information line, toll free at 1-877-ORB-BABY (1-877-672-2229) or visit www.orbitbaby.com/registration.
