Safety Recall Notice 16S26 / NHTSA Recall 16V-384
Aviso de Revisión de Seguridad 16S26

2008 Edge
Your Vehicle Identification Number (VIN):

In July 2016, Ford Motor Company sent you a letter announcing Safety Recall 16S26 – Passenger Airbag Inflator Replacement on your vehicle, with the VIN shown above. Since then, Ford has been developing remedy parts for your vehicle that do not contain ammonium nitrate, the chemical that has resulted in the safety recalls. This letter is to inform you that remedy parts have been delayed, and we are expecting remedy parts to become available for certain vehicles in the Spring of 2018. Ford will begin repairing vehicles as parts become available in the priority order established in the National Highway Transportation Safety Administration’s Coordinated Remedy Order. You will be notified as soon as parts are available for your vehicle.

It is important that you schedule a service appointment for the free repair as soon as you are notified.

What is the issue? On your vehicle, the passenger frontal airbag inflator may rupture in the event of a crash necessitating airbag deployment. A ruptured inflator may result in metal fragments striking vehicle occupants causing serious injury or death. Additional information regarding Takata recalls can be found at www.safercar.gov and owner.ford.com/Takata.

What should you do? WARNING: Until remedy parts become available, do not allow anyone to sit in the first row passenger seat. The air bag inflator could rupture during deployment in a crash and cause injuries or death. When the front row passenger seat is not occupied, the passenger air bag will not deploy, eliminating the risk.
When parts are available to support 16S26, Ford Motor Company will send a letter to inform you that parts are available and to contact your dealer to schedule a repair.
