Title

BMW Safety Recall 24V-288: Head Air Bag

Text

The left and/or right head air bags may not have been produced by the supplier according to specifications. In a crash in which head air bag deployment is warranted, the air bag may not deploy as intended, which could increase the risk of injury. The two halves of the air bag inflator could also separate, even in cases where a crash does not occur, which could increase the risk of injury, including to persons who may be near the vehicle.
