Important reminder: safety notice – R10329

To fix the potential safety issue we previously told you about, a software update (version 3.6.4) is available for your car.

Please make sure it's installed as soon as possible via Settings in this app, or within the car's centre screen (Settings > System > Software update). You may need to drive the car before the update shows in the centre screen. Alternatively, please book an appointment with your local Volvo retailer at your earliest convenience.

Until this latest software version is installed, do not use 'B' mode (if you have a plug-in hybrid car) or One Pedal Drive (if you have a pure electric car).

Important reminder: safety notice – R10329

To fix the potential safety issue we previously told you about, a software update (version 3.6.4) is available for your car.

Please make sure it's installed as soon as possible via Settings in this app, or within the car's centre screen (Settings > System > Software update). You may need to drive the car before the update shows in the centre screen. Alternatively, please book an appointment with your local Volvo retailer at your earliest convenience.

Until this latest software version is installed, do not use 'B' mode (if you have a plug-in hybrid car) or One Pedal Drive (if you have a pure electric car).

Once the corrective software is installed, this issue is fixed and you don't need to take any further action.

(This recall applies to certain plug-in hybrid variants of S60, V60, XC60, S90, S90L, V90 and XC90, and pure electric EC40, XC40 and EX40 cars.)
