Subject SERVICE BULLETIN: 2006-2007 CBR1000RR Stator Warranty Extension

M/C Service Communications

July 21, 2011

Dear Honda Dealer:

American Honda has determined that the stator on 2006-2007 model year CBR1000RR motorcycles may overheat and short circuit, resulting in insufficient battery charging.

To ensure customer satisfaction, American Honda is extending the warranty an additional six years over the standard 12 month warranty only for stators that fail the test procedure in the DIAGNOSIS section of the the Service Bulletin. Click the below link to view the bulletin.

2006-2007 CBR1000RR Stator Warranty Extension \(CBR1000RR #8\)

If a customer complains that the battery of their 2006-2007 CBR1000RR is not recharging properly, read the Service Bulletin carefully to determine if their unit qualifies for warranty extension.

Sincerely,
American Honda Motor Co., Inc.

Bradley K. Little
Manager,
Motorcycle Service Communications.
