Subject: UPDATE - Subaru Recall Campaign WQQ-52 Brake Line Corrosion

As we mentioned in the January 26, 2015 subarunet announcement concerning the WQQ-52 Brake Line Corrosion recall, additional affected vehicles would need to be identified based on additional WQK-47 claims submitted throughout the 90-day claim submission period.

The affected vehicles include certain: 2009-2013 Subaru Forester vehicles; 2008-2011 Subaru Impreza, WRX, and STI vehicles; and 2012-2014 Subaru WRX and STI vehicles repaired prior to December 23, 2014 under the WQK-47 (14V-311) brake line corrosion recall.

The 90-day claim submission time period for WQK-47 repairs completed prior to December 23, 2014 has ended. From the additional WQK-47 claims submitted with a repair completion date prior to December 23, 2014, we have identified an additional 338 vehicles that must be repaired under the WQQ-52 recall.

- Notification letters will be sent to the owners of these additional 338 vehicles on April 27, 2015
- Emails will also be sent to affected owners with a valid email address on file with MySubaru.com
- WQQ-52 recall coverage information for these vehicles is now available through the Vehicle Coverage Inquiry function on subarunet.com
- A list of the additional affected VINs has been send to each respective Region/Zone Office

Coverage for affected vehicles must be confirmed by using the Vehicle Coverage Inquiry function on subarunet.com. If you have any questions concerning the WQQ-52 recall, please refer to the WQQ-52 Subaru Product/Campaign bulletin posted on STIS.
