 Campaign Status Update *****

In 2006, Nissan launched a Voluntary Recall Campaign to reprogram the Engine Control Module (ECM). The ECM reprogramming enables a "limp home" mode if the engine oil drops below an acceptable level. The "limp home" mode limits engine speed and illuminates the "Service Engine Soon" warning light.

This campaign also included a Voluntary Service Campaign initiative to inspect the vehicle to determine if excessive engine oil consumption was occurring on certain Altima and Sentra vehicles with QR25DE engines.

The Voluntary Service Campaign action was intended to identify low-mileage vehicles requiring engine replacement as a result of higher than normal oil consumption. The combined recall and service campaigns are now 87% complete and Nissan is no longer requiring dealers to inspect the vehicles for excessive oil consumption.

Effective September 4, 2015, Inspections and engine replacements performed under PB023 and customer reimbursement for out of pocket expenses for these service campaign repairs are no longer eligible for reimbursement.

The Voluntary Recall Campaign for ECM Reprogramming and replacement will continue and repairs can be claimed under PB023.

 What Dealers Should Do**

2. Dealers should continue to reprogram the Engine Control Module on any vehicles affected by this recall campaign.
3. Dealers should submit any open claims for the oil consumption measurement and/or engine replacement under this campaign by September 3, 2015. Claims submitted after this date will be rejected.
