Technical Background

Sun visor(s) are not in the correct position for normal vanity light operation.

Service

A common failure is the sun visor is not seated all the way towards the extension rod mounting base as shown in figure 1.

Under normal operation the vanity light will not illuminate in the following positions:

- Partial down position from the roof liner.
- Positioned all the way forward towards the windshield.
- Vanity mirror cover is partially open.
- Sun visor extended away from the mounting base.

The conditions explained in figure 1 commonly happen after the sun visor is positioned to block sun light coming through the door window, and then moved back to the forward position. If this is found to be the cause of the vanity light concern, inform the customer of the proper positioning and operation.
