WHAT'S IN THIS UPDATE?

Ford Power-Up 5.1.1

Updates are bringing the heat.

If you're heading toward a DC Fast Charging station (using your vehicle's navigation system), your battery will now start preconditioning within 20 miles of your destination. This allows the battery to accept a charge faster in cold or hot weather, getting you back on the road quickly. Remember, you must enter your fast charging station into your Ford vehicle's navigation system for preconditioning* to work.

Ford Power-Up delivers software updates that are designed to help make your Mustang® Mach-E® electric vehicle better over time.

*Effectiveness of cabin conditioning may be reduced by extreme outside temperatures.

WHAT'S IN THIS UPDATE?

Ford Power-Up 5.2.1

We've been busy. Take a look at what we've done.

Easy on the eyes

You may have noticed that things look a little different on your vehicle screen today. That's because we're continuing to improve the modern design to make it simple to navigate and find what you're looking for.

A few changes you'll notice include a smaller top bar and we've moved some icons to make it easier to view. A dedicated user profile button has even been added.

Step up to the mic, please

For this latest Ford Power-Up software update, we listened to your feedback and made it easier for you to continue to share your experiences by recording and sending voice feedback from the convenience of your vehicle.

Prior to this update, access for this feature was in the Settings-General menu. But now it's been moved to the App screen and will be available whenever your vehicle is activated in FordPass®. Look for the new Record Feedback microphone icon — and continue to let us know what you really think.

No need to sound the alarm

This update will allow you to easily turn the motion sensor alarm OFF from the vehicle settings screen or alert popup. That means when you have a passenger or pet inside, they can move around while you do the same outside.

Ford Power-Up delivers software updates that are designed to help make your Mustang Mach-E® better over time.
