Condition	Some customers may comment that the rear automatic braking may brake unwantedly, usually when reversing out of a garage or driveway.
Cause	The cause of the condition may be due to the design sensitivity with the rear virtual bumper. The system is calibrated to catch as many possible scenarios as it can.
Correction	If a customer has this condition with their vehicle, dealer technicians can show the customer that there are different settings that the customer can select in their personalization menu to either set an audible alert only or audible alert with braking. Customers are also encouraged to refer to the owner's manual section on reverse automatic braking (RAB) and the warnings that are noted.
