If Your Query Cannot Be Resolved

If My Bentley support cannot resolve your issue, a DISS technical query should be raised. There are two options for raising this query:

1. Ask My Bentley support directly to raise a DISS technical query. This route is preferred since it allows Bentley product support to liaise directly with the specialists at the call centres
2. Raise a DISS technical query yourself. If you choose this option, please make sure you have exhausted the technical support available from My Bentley support and tell them that you are raising a DISS technical query yourself, in order to avoid duplicate queries. Any query you raise should include all DISS best practice measures, including providing as much detail as possible regarding the customer complaint, any advice offered from My Bentley support and observance of any published TPI's or other information.

Queries raised by retailers who have not used My Bentley support in the first instance will be returned until this important step is completed.
